$100 DOG CASE GOES TO JURY

J. L. Howe Seeks Damages For Loss Of Dog; Was Shot By 15-Year-Old Boy.

The civil action for $100 damages, growing out of the shooting of a foxhound, owned by J. L. Howe, Mt. Pleasant township, by Lester Spangler, 15-year-old son of Mrs. Harry Spangler, also of Mt. Pleasant township, was given to a jury in court this afternoon, after closing addresses by the opposing counsel and the charge by Judge D. P. McPherson.

Howe sued Mrs. Spangler for the death of the dog, which the woman's son admitted shooting on June 3, 1929, on his mother's farm. On the stand during the forenoon, the 15-year-old boy said he shot the dog because it was chasing sheep on his mother's farm. Mrs. Spangler said she reported the dog's alleged depredations among her sheep to George Raffensperger, field agent in Adams county for the bureau of animal industry.

Howe was represented by Attorney John P. Butt, while Mrs. Spangler had Attorney Eugene V. Bulleit as her counsel.

On the jury were J. W. Sowers, Harry Lackner, Harry J. Rhine, Charles Reinecker, C. Arthur Griest, C. C. Rohrbaugh, Joseph H. Kuhn, Reuben Kepner, Charles D. Summers, Luther C. Plank, William C. Kohler and William Hassler.

Two directed verdicts in civil cases, settled out of court, have been taken. In the case of Harry L. Bream, a minor, by his mother, Mrs. Blanche A. Bream, Cashtown, against P. M. Hess, Waynesboro, young Bream was awarded $750. The case was the outgrowth of an automobile accident in Cashtown in which young Bream was struck by Hess' automobile.

In the other civil action, Louisa L. Hartlaub, a minor, by her father, Neuman Hartlaub, near Brushtown, was awarded a verdict of $200 damages against Richard Anderson, of Harrisburg. The young girl was injured in an automobile accident near Brushtown, September 1, 1928, when a car driven by Anderson ran into a machine, driven by Hartlaub.

FIRE MEETING TONIGHT

The monthly meeting of the Gettysburg Fire company will be held at 7 o'clock tonight in the parlors of the engine house. Officers for the coming year will be placed in nomination. A large attendance is urged.

Thanksgiving as National Holiday Is 66 Years Old

Thanksgiving Day, in spite of popular belief to the contrary, has not always been a national holiday. The fact is that November 28, 1929, will be but the 66th national observance of the day, and the establishment of this peculiarly American institution can be credited to two persons, one a woman whose name is almost forgotten—Mrs. Sarah Hale, of New Hampshire—the other, Abraham Lincoln.

Walter P. Andrews, grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, brings out these facts of the day's origin in the current issue of the Elks magazine.

"In 1776 and 1778 Congress declared a Day of Thanksgiving for the victories of the Continental Army," Mr. Andrews observes. "In 1789, and again in 1795, President Washington proclaimed a national Thanksgiving Day. President Madison ordered a Day of Public Thanksgiving for the successful termination of the War of 1812.

"No observance for 30 years. Following the Madison proclamation, nothing further was done in this respect for 30 years. We then became largely indebted to Mrs. Sarah Hale, of New Hampshire, for the reestablishment of a national Day of Thanksgiving, who had previously observed such an occasion in her own household as a day of feasting and charitable ministrations to the hungry poor about her. National Thanksgiving Days previously proclaimed were occasions

International Debaters Here On Thursday

A Gettysburg college debating team will uphold the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved: that trial by jury should be abolished," in a forensic contest with a team representing Victoria college of the University of New Zealand, at Brua chapel, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Gettysburg debaters will be Stewart W. Herman, Jr., Donald G. Wetzel and Arthur W. Lauver.

The members of the team from Victoria college which will take the negative side of the question are: Guy R. Powles, LL. B., who is a candidate for the B. A. degree; William J. Mountjoy and Walter J. Hall, M. A., candidates for the degree of LL. B. All three are experienced debaters and have participated in many contests. They hold among them several first prizes for oratory and debate.

Victoria college is situated in Wellington, New Zealand. It has an enrollment of 800 students. Though of comparatively recent foundation, it was established in the year of the diamond jubilee of Queen Victoria and was named after her—its picturesque brick walls covered with ivy are taking on the aspect of age.

This evening, the team from the Antipodes meets Dickinson's debaters at Carlisle.

COUNTY TAXES NOT CHANGED

The Adams county commissioners set the 1930 tax rates at eight mills for county purposes and one mill for bond purposes at their regular meeting, Tuesday.

The rates for next year are the same as those for 1929. This year's taxes amounted to approximately $191,000. C. P. Palmer, clerk to the commissioners, said. Tax rates were raised last year when the board was confronted with debts of approximately $40,000 carried over from the previous administration.

Within another year, it is considered likely that the county tax rates may be reduced, unless something unforeseen occurs.

The commissioners also inspected the Lincoln Highway, between Gulden's station and New Oxford, and the road from Hampton to York Springs, now under construction by the state department of highways.

BANK ROBBER LINKED WITH CHECK FORGER

York Merchant Identifies Photograph Of Hold-up Suspect As Forger.

$60 CHECK BOGUS

That the lone, bareheaded bandit who last Wednesday robbed the Abbottstown state bank of the sum of $1,115 in currency may have been in York after the robbery is the probability brought out by the identification of a photograph of a man believed to have been the bandit as that of a man who, about 4 o'clock on the day of the robbery, fled westward. However, the identification of the photograph, which had been said by Wilson Bream, cashier of the Abbottstown bank, to resemble the bandit who held him up, is a positive one this time. Mr. Nace is certain that the published photograph is the likeness of the man who gave him a check for $60, on the York Springs National bank last week.

Has Many Aliases

The photograph is that of Wilbur N. Rand, alias William Hennessey, alias William Steel, also wanted in Washington and Bucyrus, Ohio, for robbery. The photograph has also been said by Miss Helen DeHoff, girl cashier of the Hellen state bank, to be the likeness of the man who entered the institution in which she is a clerk about noon the same day and asked to have a $5 bill changed to a $5 gold piece, the same procedure as was followed by the bandit at Abbottstown.

The name used by the man who presented the bad check to Mr. Nace was that of the Rev. C. D. Adams, Jr. He represented himself as the pastor of a church at York Springs, which had been rebuilt after being destroyed by fire about two years ago. When he first entered the store of Mr. Nace, which Nace says was about 3 o'clock, he said that he wanted Mr. Nace to contribute to a musical number at the dedication service in the church on December 27.

Buys New Trumpet

Mr. Nace, being impressed with the pseudo minister, told him that he had a special fund from which he contributed for that kind of work, but as he had used the money during the preceding week for a similar purpose elsewhere, he took the card of the minister and promised to send him a check during the next week.

At that the man, now identified as Rand, prepared to leave. While on his way from the store he asked Nace if he had any cheap trumpets. Nace replied that he had only new ones, whereupon he exhibited a number of new instruments. The visitor finally decided to purchase one and asked Nace for a blank check. Nace readily supplied him with such a check and the visitor wrote a check on the York Springs National bank, signing the name of the Rev. C. A. Adams, Jr., for the amount of $60. He then departed.

Shortly afterward Nace called the bank at York Springs, only to find that they knew of no rebuilt church and no minister by that name. Nace then reported the incident to the police.

Unknown Soldier Will Never Be Identified

Washington, Nov. 13. — Fears that the identity of America's Unknown Soldier might some day be known were set at rest Tuesday at the War Department as a sequel to Armistice Day observance. The records there showed that the utmost care was taken to make sure that the body chosen to represent the young Americans who lost their lives could never be identified, even through such a remote possibility as the process of elimination.

In preparing to make the selection, the Army authorities exhumed four unidentified Americans, one each from the Meuse Argonne, St. Mihiel, Somme and Aisne Marne cemeteries.

The uniforms and equipment and the places where they had been buried originally established the fact that they were Americans, and their wounds showed the cause of death. No body was taken which bore any clue whatsoever which might lead to its identification.

All were then prepared for burial, placed in identical caskets and brought together at Chalons-sur-

SIX TEACHERS ARE DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Will Represent Adams County At State Education Association Meeting.

HEAR SPEAKERS

Six Adams county teachers were nominated as delegates to the Pennsylvania State Education association convention at Tuesday's session of the seventy-fifth institute at the Gettysburg high school. Those placed in nomination by the nominating committee are the Rev. J. Harold Little, Miss Melle Eisenhart, Royal Hintze, Miss Minnie V. Orndorff, Charles L. Gentzler and Miss Ruth A. Burgoon.

Two of the six nominees will be elected delegates and two alternates on Thursday morning.

The names of Ira Y. Baker and Kermit Deardorff were placed in nomination for auditor. The report of the nominating committee was given by Guile W. Lefever, who presided at the Tuesday morning session.

Dr. C. F. Hoban, of the state department of public instruction, concluded his series of lectures on "Visual Education", Tuesday, with an address on "The Contribution of Visual Aids to Elementary Instruction". The speaker said a child should be taught to do a few things well and those which are of vital importance. He also gave an object lesson in teaching geography.

Sectional Meetings

Sectional meetings were again held, Tuesday, with Doctor Hoban and Dr. Ezra Lehman as the speakers.

Doctor Lehman, principal of the Shippensburg State Teachers' college, spoke on the subject, "Measuring Successful Teaching in the High School". "The high school must meet the requirements of higher institutions of learning," the speaker said, "but only certain basic things should be taught. In junior high schools, we need exploratory or vocational guidance courses so that the student may know what opportunities and privileges the various courses offer."

"In senior high schools, correctness of expression, enunciation and pronunciation should be taught."

York Pastor Speaks

The Rev. Earl S. Rudisill, of York, formerly of Adams county; Prof. H. L. Bland, director of music at the institute, and Dr. Garry C. Myers, of Cleveland, Ohio, were the speakers at the Tuesday afternoon session.

ROY MILLER, 28, ACCIDENTALLY SHOT TO DEATH

Gun Discharges As Young Man Is Cleaning Piece After Hunting Tuesday.

SCOUT SUICIDE

While making minor repairs to a loaded double-barrel shotgun, after returning from a hunting trip, Roy Miller, 28, was accidentally shot and killed when the weapon was discharged at the home of his father-in-law, Benjamin Hinkle, Fourth street, at 6 o'clock, Tuesday evening. Miller lived about fifteen minutes after the shooting, dying in the Warner hospital where he was taken by Trooper John Hobbs, of the state police, and Officer George Aughinbaugh.

The load from the 12-gauge shotgun took an upward course, striking Miller in the forehead above the left eye. The bulk of the load did not strike the victim, but enough of the shot hit vital spots in his head to cause death.

Scout Suicide Theory

Dr. E. A. Miller, Adams county coroner, who investigated, scouted the suicide theory after he learned that the victim was seen by his wife returning with the gun after he returned from a hunting trip, Tuesday afternoon. The coroner recorded Miller's death as accidental.

The accident occurred on the front porch of the Hinkle home. There were no eyewitnesses to the shooting. Upon hearing the shot, members of the Hinkle family rushed to the porch and found Miller prostrate on the floor, his head in a pool of blood.

According to relatives of Miller, the shotgun, the property of Hinkle, had a weak trigger spring, which caused both barrels to be fired when one trigger was pulled. It was this spring that Miller was endeavoring to repair when he was fatally shot, members of the family said.

Married Four Years

Miller had not been working for six weeks. He was last employed at the Victor products corporation here.

He was married about four years ago to Miss Edna Hinkle. They have no children.

Miller is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Miller, Bonneauville, his widow and the following brothers and sisters:

George Miller, Bonneauville; Paul Miller, Gettysburg; Ralph Miller, Gettysburg R. 10; Mrs. Joseph Woodward, Gettysburg; Cyril, Donald, Mary, Grace, Ethel, John, Rita, Betty Jane and Monroe, all at home.

Escapes Injury In Auto Mishap

C. O. Stear, of Smicksburg, Juniata county, escaped injury when the automobile he was driving skidded and upset on the Lincoln Highway, one mile east of Gettysburg, at 9 o'clock this morning. The accident was investigated by Patrolman J. G. Warren, of the highway patrol.

170 Directors Of School Meet

Most of the 170 Adams county school directors were present today for the annual school directors' convention, held in connection with the teachers' institute. D. C. Jacobs, Arendtsville, presided at the meeting.

The directors met with the teachers for the devotional exercises at institute, conducted by the Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran church here, and for the first lecture of the morning, given by Dr. Garry C. Myers, of Cleveland, Ohio, on the subject, "Celebrate Success."

Afterward the directors adjourned to the gymnasium of the high school, where they heard the address of President Jacobs, who urged cooperation among the directors and cooperation between the directors and the township supervisors.

Prof. D. E. Crosley, of the state department of public instruction, also spoke, his subject being "The Budget System."

Miss Nancy Adams, Peach Glen, was elected second vice president of the school directors' association to fill a vacancy. In the absence of H. M. McIlhenny, Straban township, secretary of the organization, Irvin Black, Cumberland township, was appointed in his place for today's meeting.

This afternoon the directors met with the teachers.

PRICES CRUMBLE ON MARKET AGAIN

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—Further distress selling came into the stock market today and prices of leading issues crumbled to new low levels for the year. Net declines ranged from one to 18 points. Trading was again in enormous volume, the ticker running an hour behind the market in the last hour. No adverse business or financial development appeared to explain the renewal of selling pressure. Considerable mystery also surrounded the source of the forced liquidation but the weakness of high grade industrial and railroad issues led to a widespread belief that some of the selling probably represented the liquidation of stocks held in bank loans.

Kaiser's Sister Dies As She Sleeps

Bonn, Prussia, Nov. 13 (AP).—Frau Alexander Subkoff, 63, who was Princess Victoria, sister of the former German Emperor and grandchild of Queen Victoria, of Great Britain, died today in her modest residence here, ending one of the strangest romances written into the records of European royalty.

Death came while she slept and followed a brief illness which began last week shortly after Alexander Subkoff, Russian adventurer, who was 34 years her junior, was served with divorce papers on her behalf.

Frau Subkoff when she married in 1927 renounced her rights as Princess and accepted estrangement from her family.

By her first marriage the former Princess was Princess Schaumburg-Lippe.

MAROONS PLAY 2 MORE GAMES

Two More Games Remain Of Schedule; Close Season With Lebanon High.

With two more games yet to be played before the curtain drops on the high school grid season, Coach Martin and his warriors started practice Tuesday in preparation for the game at New Cumberland on Saturday.

Despite losing to Reading last Saturday, the squad was given a holiday on Monday. This gave opportunity for the Maroon cripplies to mend. Coach Martin's team suffered for the first time from crippled players last Saturday and a rest was welcome.

Reaser, the scrappy little center for the young Bullets, was kept on the sidelines during the Reading game. Kitzmiller was pressed into action in the last few minutes, a bruised hip keeping him from his regular starting place. Both boys are expected to be in shape by the end of the week.

New Cumberland's fine showing against Mechanicsburg last Saturday when they lost 6-0, in the last few moments of play, has changed the opinion of the local squad as to the calibre of foe they face. Previously the game was considered a let-down between the Reading and Lebanon tilts but now it is just another hard one.

When the Maroons failed to score against Reading, it was the first time this season that they have failed to get one or more touchdowns during a game. Building up a more powerful offense will comprise much of Coach Martin's time this week.

Chinese Maids Pray Moon For Husbands

Shanghai (AP).—Nationalist government decrees notwithstanding, Chinese maids of the middle and working classes persisted this year in their annual entreaties to the moon for husbands. The prayers were offered at midnight on the fifteenth day of the eighth moon in accordance with a custom of immemorial age.

It was a part of the mid-autumn festival, against which nationalist reformers have rallied in vain. The more enlightened Chinese have given up this and similar superstitions, but they constitute a decided minority.

While the maids and spinsters were praying for mates, the rest of the populace enjoyed its annual feast of roast pork and moon cakes. It required more than 10,000 hogs to satisfy the appetites of Shanghai Chinese alone this year.

YOUTHFUL YORK COUPLE ELOPES IN DAD'S AUTO

York, Nov. 13.—Borrowing an automobile belonging to the father of the boy, a young pair of this city left home and married in Maryland. It was learned Tuesday, when the car was found with a note of explanation on the seat.

The elopers are A. Lewis Kehm, 16, and Hattie Dolheimer, 17.

Information had been made by the boy's father before Alderman Jacob Stager, charging the lad with taking an automobile without the owner's consent. It was not known at that time where the couple had gone.

The charge was withdrawn when a police officer discovered the parked car. The joint note read:

"Sorry, father, but I went to Maryland and got married."

(Signed) "HATTIE."

"Sorry, mother, to worry you."

(Signed) "AUBREY."

FATHER PAYS FOR SON'S GAS BILL AND COSTS

Fine and costs totaling $17.50 were paid before Magistrate Miller, of Chambersburg, by Merle Baker, of Somerset, after a charge of larceny had been reduced to disorderly conduct.

Baker, traveling in a sedan, with Elmer Mull, Emma Smith, Evelyn Smith, all of Somerset, and Leona Star, of Stoyestown, stopped at Jack Murray's gasoline station along the Lincoln Highway, near Graeffenburg inn, Monday evening at 5:30 o'clock and ordered ten gallons of gasoline. He asked Murray to fill the radiator with water and when Murray went into the station to get a receipt Baker drove off towards Chambersburg. Murray notified the Chambersburg substitution of state police and Trooper Hartman advised town police to be on the look-out for the car if it went through that town. Patrolman Burke halted the car and turned over Baker and his companions to Trooper Hartman.

Baker's companions were released but Baker was held until Tuesday morning when his father, a Somerset garageman, arrived and made settlement for the gasoline. For Murray's lost time in coming to Chambersburg and paid the fine and costs for disorder.

Junior Bullets Must Obey Rules or Lose Their Tickets

If the members of the Junior Bullets organization do not remain in their reserved section of the stands at the Gettysburg-Lebanon Valley football game here Saturday, the organization will be disbanded and no more free admissions to home athletic contests at college will be honored.

This was the decision reached by those who sponsor the Junior Bullets.

At every home game so far this season the Junior Bullets have run all over the field, climbing into other sections of the stands and in many ways causing considerable trouble to field officials. An effort was made to keep the youngsters in their own stands but the kiddies, girls and boys, have refused to obey orders or adhere to their promises made when the Junior Bullets' organization was first started.

Astronomers Await Appearance Of Missing Meteors This Week

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—All over the world on the nights of November 13 and 14 astronomers will be watching for the most important meteors in more than thirty years, the long missing Leonids. No spectacular display is expected this year, only a few Leonids, but if there are enough of them it will mean that in about three years the earth is due for another brilliant meteor shower, veritable rains of fire. The Leonids have shown up quite regularly three times a century for more than a thousand years, but failed to appear when last due at the first of the present century. Astronomers suspect that failure session. The Rev. Mr. Ruidisill spoke on the subject, "The Making of A Teacher", stressing personality, intellect, emotion, will power and behavior as the essential qualities. "A teacher," he said, "must know his subject and how to communicate it to the children, must know child life, must know the best teaching methods and must be cultured."

"The teacher must educate the child for a changing civilization so that future civilizations will be better for what he or she has wrought."

"Music Appreciation", the subject of Professor Bland, was made entertaining by the playing of several records by the speaker to illustrate several points in his address. "America," he said, "spends more money than all the other countries combined for music instruments, yet the poorest listeners are in the United States. The reason for this is that most of us look upon music as recreational. Music links up with everything."

Doctor Myers spoke on "Gettysburg Together—Home and School". "The home and school are inseparable powers. The child is a personality, tied to home and loved ones. It is only through closer touch with the child that we come in closer touch with the home. Parent-Teacher meetings are a medium by which parents and teachers come together into closer relationship."

The death of J. Francis Yake, veteran Adams county teacher, who died at his home in McSherrystown, Monday evening, after attending the first day's session of institute, was announced to the teachers, Tuesday morning, and Tuesday afternoon, the institute voted to send a floral tribute to the Yake family.

Ancient Data Sought The entire civilized world is requested in a notice from Harvard Observatory to assist in searching for hitherto unknown written records of past leonid showers. Dr. William J. Fisher, Harvard's "meteor fisherman," believes that in ship's logs, church missionary government and other records there exist references to the Leonids. Already he has received answers to the Harvard notices, one telling of a chronicle in Syria, made in Damascus in the twelfth century, containing astronomical observations as far back as the sixth century. Information has been received also that there are sources in China, and possibly in Japan, Korea and Russia. Chinese writings are considered especially important.

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

SYNOPSIS: Barbara decides to divorce Ray so he may be free to marry Rita. Rita and Ray are in love, and that their mutual interest in music had drawn them together. Barbara concludes the estrangement with Ray is her own fault and she intends to end the relationship. Rita, the most unselfish act of her life. She writes Ray a short note, advising him of her plans. That afternoon, Ray and Rita are working on the revue score and he informs her of the impending divorce action. Rita, realizing Ray loves her, Ray proposes that they marry as soon as he is free—a proposal which she unknown is moved to make more in gratitude than love.

Chapter 33 DON QUIXOTE

RAY had said, "That's settled, eh, Rita? Directly I'm free. . ."

To Ray it was settled, absolutely. Rita satisfied the side of his nature that craved companionship. As for the other, the part of him that would always belong to Barbara, she stifled that by indulging in an overdose of work.

There was plenty to be done in the weeks that followed. The score finished and approved, of rehearsals were now in full swing. Those days he hadn't time for regrets. Neither had he time to spend with Rita. They were forced to postpone the supper they had enjoyed together until Ray's contract had run out at the club exactly a week before "The Knave of Jazz" opened on Broadway.

Rita, too, was busy rehearsing during the day. But nights she was free. Pete Anheim had insisted that she give up her work at the club. Otherwise, he told her, she would arrive at the opening night in a hearse.

Rita wasn't her gay sparkling self those days. During rehearsal time, or when she was with Ray, she managed to simulate a light-hearted manner. But at night she was perpetually conscious of a doubt nagging at the back of her brain.

Did Ray love her as he should love the girl he intended to make his wife? Ray's attitude was too matter of fact, too altogether sane. It lacked that breathless something which makes two people imagine they can live as cheaply as one and rushes couples to the altar when they have hardly the price of the minister's fee.

She told herself that his attitude might change after marriage. But always the fact reassured itself that Ray was still in love with his wife.

Yet, even granting that, she saw no reason why she should give him back to his wife, presuming Barbara should want him.

Ray had asked her to marry him once he was free. Nothing short of a deliberate act on her part would make him go back on that.

Yet she could not help thinking a good deal about Ray's wife. She wondered what the girl was like and what lay behind her sudden decision to divorce Ray.

There was always the possibility of another man. Rita wished she knew for certain. Lately she had been tormented by the thought that maybe Barbara too, was in love with Ray. That perhaps they were both little more than stupid, wilful children who only needed the intercession of a third party to make them kiss and be friends. Yet she saw no earthly reason why she should be that third person—she who loved Ray herself as she had loved no other man.

Nevertheless, a few days later, she found herself making a slow and reluctant progress up Park avenue towards the stately apartment house where Barbara lived. She walked the length of the block four times before she finally rushed into the elevator. Even when she was directly before Barbara's front door she was on the point of turning back.

"You idiot," she muttered, "why are you deliberately risking your happiness?"

All the same she pressed the doorbell.

"Is Mrs. Lowther in?"

The butler inclined his head.

"Please come in. Whom shall I say wishes to see her?"

"Miss Rita Gilmore."

She found herself ushered ceremoniously into the drawing room, the door closed behind her.

On the mantelpiece was a life-like portrait of Ray. She gazed at it almost with resentment.

Her reflection was interrupted by the opening of the door. Turning quickly, she found herself staring into the face of a white, determined-looking girl, an odd, childish dignity enveloping her. As Rita looked at Ray's wife her own face blanched with dismay.

"You. . . You. . . I might have guessed it!" Rita gasped.

Barbara gazed back in amazement. The naughty words she had intended to say died on her lips.

Instead, she said wonderingly: "You know me?"

"Sure. . ." Rita swallowed twice. "And I used to feel so sorry for you, each evening sitting so forlorn looking in the little booth. . ."

"You—you saw me at the club?"

"Saw you? I should say I did. I watched for you each evening when I came on to do my turn, hoping that night that you'd be laughing and happy looking. You see I thought you so pretty, yet you seemed sad," she broke off and added, a wry twist to her lips: "All the time I guess you came just to get a glimpse of Ray!"

Barbara was a-let. The situation had been taken entirely out of her hands. Somehow everything was as it shouldn't be. Not true to form at all. She found herself liking instead of hating this girl before her. She couldn't bring herself to resent her words.

Instead, the genuine sympathy in Rita's voice made tears find their way to her own eyes. For the moment she could think of nothing to say.

Rita went on speaking, as though to herself, her voice husky. "I should have known that something like this would happen. . . I told myself I was crazy to come here at all. But it upsets my calculations to find that the other fellow's you. . ."

"I'm sure I don't know what you're talking about," said Barbara. "Course you don't. You'd have to be a mindreader, and, if you were, you wouldn't have let Ray go in the first place!"

But at this Barbara tried to whip her pride together.

"I—I didn't let him go," stammered Rita.

Rita shrugged wearily. "He went because you never tried to understand him."

That, Barbara felt, she couldn't stand for.

"That seems to be beside the point. You know, of course, that I'm divorcing Ray. I am arranging it so that there will be little publicity and no scandal. You—you won't be brought into it at all."

Rita's big brown eyes lighted up with astonishment.

"Why, in heaven's name, should I be?"

Barbara turned a quick red. She floundered.

"But—but I should have thought. . . You surely know. . . I have a perfect right. . ."

In two quick strides Rita was by her side, looking down fiercely into her face.

"You think—who put that charitable thought into your head?"

"Surely you're not going to deny it. . ."

Rita's hands fell to her sides. She spoke coolly.

"A lie like that isn't worth denying. . . But I guess it's not altogether your fault. But it seems you had the whole situation doped out on too conventional lines—bad, designing cabaret dancer. . ."

"I didn't think that!" Barbara cried impulsively. "At least—not after I'd seen you. I thought you must be in love with one another."

Rita's face softened.

"You're not so bad. You're right about that. Ray wants to marry me."

Barbara stood very still.

"Is that what you have come here to tell me?"

"Not altogether. At least it was in the first place, but now I've a mind to tell you something else. Ray is still in love with you."

Hoover Honors Unknown Soldier

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP)—President Hoover paid the tribute of the nation at the tomb of the Unknown soldier Monday by laying a wreath of white chrysanthemums upon this hallowed place in Arlington cemetery.

The president was accompanied to the cemetery by Mrs. Hoover and the secretaries of war and the navy. After the president had placed the wreath on the tomb Mrs. Hoover stepped forward and laid four chrysanthemums, also white, beside the offering of the chief executive.

The ceremony was brief, simple and in strict accordance with the custom established during the years since the unknown soldier was buried. The army band saluted Mr. Hoover as he entered the national amphitheatre and then played the Star Spangled Banner. When the president's party entered the grounds a salute of 21 guns was fired.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should try Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 20 years of study. Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and help overcome constipation. Take them daily and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes sold yearly. 15c, 30c, 60c.

BETTER HEALTH—FOR WIFE AND MOTHER

Just how hard it is sometimes for wife or mother to nerve herself up to her daily tasks no one but the sufferer can tell. Mrs. A. G. Wells, Rocky Mount, N. C., says: "I have never known of the wonderful benefit I derived from taking Foley's Kidney Pills. They drove away my physical ills, and I am now never 'too tired' to attend to my family and household, as I could not do while suffering from those distressing kidney ailments."

THE LUXURY HUSBAND

SYNOPSIS: Barbara decides to divorce Ray so he may be free to marry Rita. Convicted Rita and Ray are in love, and that their mutual interest in music had drawn them together. Barbara concludes the estrangement with Ray is her own fault and she intends to end their relations with the most unselfish act of her life. She writes Ray a short note, advising him of her plans. That afternoon Ray and Rita are working on the revue score and he informs her of the impending divorce action. Realizing Rita loves him, Ray proposes that they marry as soon as he is free—a proposal which he unknowingly is moved to make more in gratitude than love.

Chapter 29 DON QUIXOTE

RAY had said, "That's settled, eh, Rita? Directly I'm free..." To Ray it was settled, absolutely. Rita satisfied the side of his nature that craved companionship. As for the other, the part of him that would always belong to Barbara, she stifled that by indulging in an overdose of work.

There was plenty to be done in the weeks that followed. The score finished and approved, of rehearsals were now in full swing. Those days he hadn't time for regrets. Neither had he time to spend with Rita. They were forced to postpone the supper they had enjoyed together until Ray's contract had run out at the club exactly a week before "The Knave of Jaz" opened on Broadway.

Rita, too, was busy rehearsing during the day. But nights she was free. Pete Anheim had insisted that she give up her work at the club. Otherwise, he told her, she would arrive at the opening night in a haste.

Rita wasn't her gay sparkling self those days. During rehearsal time, or when she was with Ray, she managed to simulate a light-hearted manner. But at night she was perpetually conscious of a doubt nagging at the back of her brain.

Did Ray love her as he should love the girl he intended to make his wife? Ray's attitude was too matter of fact, too altogether sane. It lacked that breathless something which makes two people imagine they can live as cheaply as one and rushes couples to the altar when they have hardly the price of the minister's fee.

She told herself that his attitude might change after marriage. But always the fact reasserted itself that Ray was still in love with his wife.

Yet, even granting that, she saw no reason why she should give him back to his wife, presuming Barbara should want him.

Ray had asked her to marry him once he was free. Nothing short of a deliberate act on her part would make him go back on that.

Yet she could not help thinking a good deal about Ray's wife. She wondered what the girl was like and what lay behind her sudden decision to divorce Ray.

There was always the possibility of another man. Rita wished she knew for certain. Lately she had been tormented by the thought that maybe Barbara too, was in love with Ray. That perhaps they were both little more than stupid, wilful children who only needed the intercession of a third party to make them kiss and be friends. Yet she saw no earthly reason why she should be that third person—she who loved Ray herself as she had loved no other man.

Nevertheless, a few days later, she found herself making a slow and reluctant progress up Park avenue towards the stately apartment house where Barbara lived. She walked the length of the block four times before she finally rushed into the elevator. Even when she was directly before Barbara's front door she was on the point of turning back.

"You idiot," she muttered, "why are you deliberately risking your happiness?"

All the same she pressed the doorbell. "Is Mrs. Lowther in?" The butler inclined his head. "Please come in. Whom shall I say wishes to see her?"

"Miss Rita Gilmore."

Hoover Honors Unknown Soldier

Washington, Nov. 13 (AP).—President Hoover paid the tribute of the nation at the tomb of the Unknown soldier Monday by laying a wreath of white chrysanthemums upon this hallowed place in Arlington cemetery.

The president was accompanied to the cemetery by Mrs. Hoover and the secretaries of war and the navy. After the president had placed the wreath on the tomb Mrs. Hoover stepped forward and laid four chrysanthemums, also white, beside the offering of the chief executive.

The ceremony was brief, simple and in strict accordance with the custom established during the years since the unknown soldier was buried. The army band saluted Mr. Hoover as he entered the national amphitheatre and then played the Star Spangled Banner. When the president's party entered the grounds a salute of 21 guns was fired.

THE SNOW FLURRY

By Mary Graham Bonner

"My dears," said the Little Black Clock, "we have an invitation for this evening, and as I had the chance to talk to you before bed-time I took the liberty of accepting without asking either of you about it."

"I guess we'll want to go, all right," said John.

"You know what we like," Peggy added.

The Little Black Clock grinned. His face was really and truly all smiles. He did so want to be liked by the children. And he had his wish, for John and Peggy thought the world and all of him.

"It was not a very usual invitation," the Little Black Clock said, waving one hand as he spoke. "But it did sound interesting."

The Little Black Clock took Peggy by one hand and John by the other. He seemed to have plenty of the magic, for how quickly the scene could change, and how quickly they found themselves away from their own house!

"Heigh-ho, heigh-ho, the wind will blow. We'll have some snow, heigh-ho, heigh-ho."

"Did I hear someone singing?" Peggy asked.

"Yes, you heard our host. We're almost there! Ah, there he comes!" He looked rather blown in appearance and his dark suit was trimmed with white.

"I'll have to introduce you," the Little Black Clock said.

"John and Peggy, this is Sir Snow Flurry."

And before they had a chance to speak Sir Snow Flurry gave a long whistle, and then he sang a little song they had heard a few minutes before.

UPSIDE DOWN

By Mary Graham Bonner

"We'll stop in here for some refreshments," the Little Black Clock told the children.

"What a very queer house," Peggy remarked.

"Just an idea of the owner," the Little Black Clock said. "The owner decided that so many more of his friends came from the air and landed their planes on his roof that he would have his front door steps up there."

"That's why you see he has the chimneys down where the cellar used to be."

"There's an opening down here so we can get in from the ground. Our taxi driver went a little beyond, or rather a little below, the place he should have gone. He could have let us on the roof."

"Then we could have gone in the front door."

"What a very, very funny idea," Peggy laughed.

They went inside and it was just the strangest place they had ever seen.

The owner did not seem to be around. At any rate, they wandered about.

PRICES CRUMBLE ON MARKET AGAIN

New York, Nov. 13 (AP).—Further distress selling came into the stock market today and prices of leading issues crumbled to new low levels for the year. Net declines ranged from one to 18 points. Trading was again in enormous volume, the ticker running an hour behind the market in the last hour. No adverse business or financial development appeared to explain the reversal of selling pressure. Considerable mystery also surrounded the source of the forced liquidation but the weakness of high grade industrial and railroad issues led to a widespread belief that some of the selling probably represented the liquidation of stocks held in bank loans.

Kaiser's Sister Dies As She Sleeps

Bonn, Prussia, Nov. 13 (AP).—Frau Alexander Subkoff, 62, who was Princess Victoria, sister of the former German Emperor and grandchild of Queen Victoria, of Great Britain, died today in her modern residence here, ending one of the strangest romances written into the records of European royalty.

Death came while she slept and followed a brief illness which began last week shortly after Alexander Subkoff, Russian adventurer, who was 34 years her junior, was served with divorce papers on her behalf. Frau Subkoff when she married in 1927 renounced her rights as Princess and accepted estrangement from her family.

By her first marriage the former Princess was Princess Schaumburg-Lippe.

Chinese Maids Pray Moon For Husbands

Shanghai (AP).—Nationalist government decrees notwithstanding, Chinese maids of the middle and working classes persisted this year in their annual entreaties to the moon for husbands. The prayers were offered at midnight on the fifteenth day of the eighth moon in accordance with a custom of immemorial age.

It was a part of the mid-autumn festival, against which nationalist reformers have railed in vain. The more enlightened Chinese have given up this and similar superstitions, but they constitute a decided minority.

While the maids and spinsters were praying for mates, the rest of the populace enjoyed its annual feast of roast pork and moon cakes. It required more than 10,000 hogs to satisfy the appetites of Shanghai Chinese alone this year.

YOUTHFUL YORK COUPLE ELOPES IN DAD'S AUTO

York, Nov. 13.—Borrowing an automobile belonging to the father of the boy, a young pair of this city left home and married in Maryland. It was learned Tuesday, when the car was found with a note of explanation on the seat.

The elopers are A. Lewis Kehn, 16, and Hattie Dolheimer, 17.

Information had been made by the boy's father before Alderman Jacob Stager, charging the lad with taking an automobile without the owner's consent. It was not known at that time where the couple had gone.

The charge was withdrawn when a police officer discovered the parked car. The joint note read:

"Sorry, father, but I went to Maryland and got married."

(Signed) "HATTIE."

"Sorry, mother, to worry you."

(Signed) "AUBREY."

FATHER PAYS FOR SON'S GAS BILL AND COSTS

Pine and costs totaling $1750 were paid before Magistrate Miller, of Chambersburg, by Merle Baker, of Somerset, after a charge of larceny had been reduced to disorderly conduct.

Baker, traveling in a sedan, with Elmer Mull, Emma Smith, Evelyn Smith, all of Somerset, and Leona Star, of Stoyestown, stopped at Jack Murray's gasoline station along the Lincoln Highway, near Graefenburg inn, Monday evening at 5:30 o'clock and ordered ten gallons of gasoline. He asked Murray to fill the radiator with water and when Murray went into the station to get a receptacle Baker drove off towards Chambersburg. Murray notified the Chambersburg substation of state police and Trooper Hartman advised town police to be on the look-out for the car if it went through that town. Patrolman Burke halted the car and turned over Baker and his companions to Trooper Hartman.

Baker's companions were released but Baker was held until Tuesday morning when his father, a Somerset garageman, arrived and made settlement for the gasoline. For Murray's lost time in coming to Chambersburg and paid the fine and costs for disorder.

SIX TEACHERS

session. The Rev. Mr. Buidgill spoke on the subject, "The Making of a Teacher", stressing personality, intellect, emotion, will power and behavior as the essential qualities. "A teacher," he said, "must know his subject and how to communicate it to the children, must know child life, must know the best teaching methods and must be cultured."

"The teacher must educate the child for a changing civilization so that future civilizations will be better for what he or she has wrought."

"Music Appreciation", the subject of Professor Bland, was made entertaining by the playing of several records by the speaker to illustrate several points in his address. "America," he said, "spends more money than all the other countries combined for music instruments, yet the poorest listeners are in the United States. The reason for this is that most of us look upon music as recreational. Music links up with everything."

Doctor Myers spoke on "Gettysburg Together—Home and School." "The home and school are inseparable powers. The child is a personality, tied to home and loved ones. It is only through closer touch with the child that we come in closer touch with the home. Parent-Teacher meetings are a medium by which parents and teachers come together into closer relationship."

The death of J. Francis Yake, veteran Adams county teacher, who died at his home in McSherrystown, Monday evening, after attending the first day's session of institute, was announced to the teachers. Tuesday morning, and Tuesday afternoon, the institute voted to send a floral tribute to the Yake family.

Charles Sheehan Is Buried Today

Funeral services for Charles M. Sheehan, who died Sunday evening at the home of Miss Hattie M. Johns, West Middle street, were held this morning from the Johns home, the Rev. Earl J. Bowman, pastor of St. James Lutheran church, officiating. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

Palbearers were A. D. Altland, John A. Mumper, James Caldwell, Edgar Bollinger, John Raffensperger and John C. Wright.

Junior Bullets Must Obey Rules or Lose Their Tickets

If the members of the Junior Bullets organization do not remain in their reserved section of the stands at the Gettysburg-Lebanon Valley football game here Saturday, the organization will be disbanded and no more free admissions to home athletic contests at college will be honored.

This was the decision reached by those who sponsor the Junior Bullets.

At every home game so far this season the Junior Bullets have run all over the field, climbing into other sections of the stands and in many ways causing considerable trouble to field officials. An effort was made to keep the youngsters in their own stands but the kiddies, in their own minds, have refused to obey game rules and to adhere to the organization's rules.

Parents of these youngsters are requested to notify their children of the new decision. They will be given one more chance to adhere to their promises to remain in their own stands and in no way cause trouble or disorder while attending home contests here. Officials and guards at the field have enough to contend with directing patrons to their seats, keeping the playing field cleared and attending to many other duties without having to contend with the Junior Bullets.

If the youngsters wish to abide by the rules and promises of the organization they will be admitted free to all home athletic contests at the college. If they violate their promises again at next Saturday's game all free admission tickets to made when the Junior Bullets or the youngsters will be revoked.

Astronomers Await Appearance Of Missing Meteors This Week

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—All over the world on the nights of November 13 and 14 astronomers will be watching for the most important meteors in more than thirty years, the long missing Leonids.

No spectacular display is expected this year, only a few Leonids, but if there are enough of them it will mean that in about three years the earth is due for another brilliant meteor shower, veritable rains of fire. The Leonids have shown up quite regularly three times a century for more than a thousand years, but failed to appear when last due at the first of the present century.

Astronomers suspect that failure this week, predictions may be made.

News From Neighboring Counties

SENATOR MAY RUN FOR GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND

Hagerstown.—According to reports in political circles, State Senator David A. Robb, of Cumberland, will announce his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination this week.

Mr. Robb is understood to be from the dry element in the party, particularly in the counties, and counting on wholehearted support that certain leaders in the party will back his candidacy.

While it has been said that Mayor Broening, of Baltimore, when he announces, will run as a "Constitutionalist," it is certain that a number of the Republican county leaders, anxious to have a dry whose stand and record are well known to head the ticket, will look with favor upon Mr. Robb.

HAGERSTOWN MAN DIES ON HUNTING TRIP TO VIRGINIA

Hagerstown.—Daniel Beachley, aged 50 years, prominent Hagerstown business man and church man, died Sunday afternoon of heart trouble, near Leesburg, Virginia. Mr. Beachley, with a party of Hagerstown men, left home earlier in the day on a hunting trip to Virginia and had stopped at Leesburg for supper. Shortly after leaving Leesburg he was stricken with a heart attack and died soon afterwards.

Mr. Beachley was connected with the Hagerstown Lounge company. He was also a prominent member of the Brethren church there.

He is survived by his wife, nee Christie Reighard, a cousin, Charles E. Wolff, Clayton avenue, and two children, Louise and Donovan, both at home. Several brothers and sisters also survive.

SISTERS STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

York.—While waiting for a street car Monday night, Anna L. Spangler and her sister, Mary M. Spangler, 118 South Queen street, were struck by an automobile and injured. The car was driven by Albert Stoner, Wrightsville R. 2.

The girls stated that they had been in the little frame shack in East York, near East street, waiting for the trolley car bound downtown. They thought that they heard a car approaching and stepped out of the booth. As they did so, they stepped directly in the path of Stoner's car.

Benjamin A. Kauffman, East Petersburg, Lancaster county, who was passing at the time, picked up the injured girls and took them to the York hospital, where they were admitted at 9:45 o'clock.

Examination revealed that Mary was suffering from bruises on the right side of the face, a lacerated right ear, abrasions of the right hand, abrasions of both knees, and shock. Anna had a lump on the left knee, abrasions of the left knee, and shock.

Stoner made a report of the accident to the state motor patrol, West York, and filled out the necessary form, as required by the state law.

SIX INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Frederick.—Six persons were injured, none seriously, when the driver of the machine of which they were occupants ran over an embankment in attempting to avoid striking another car on the Mount-Frederick road near Catoctin Manor, Monday night.

The six people were enroute to their homes in Baltimore. Robert Lorenzee, driver of the car, was attempting to pass another machine and in so doing struck a tree and then went down a small embankment. The other persons in the car who sustained slight injuries were Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lorenzee, Esther, Elsie and Robert Lorenzee, and J. C. Boyd. Boyd and Robert Lorenzee each sustained broken noses.

YARD ENGINE WAS OFF TRACK

York.—The wreck whistle was sounded Tuesday morning, shortly after midnight, to call out the wrecking crew for the purpose of replacing a switching engine on the tracks, in the Pennsylvania railroad yards. The engine jumped the tracks while moving cars in the freight yards.

about the coming great show. After midnight is the best time to look for them.

Ancient Data Sought

The entire civilized world is requested in a notice from Harvard Observatory to assist in searching for hitherto unknown written records of past Leonid showers. Dr. William J. Fisher, Harvard's "meteor fisherman," believes that in ship's logs, church missionary government and other records there exist references to the Leonids.

Already he has received answers to the Harvard notices, one telling of a chronicle in Syria, made in Damascus in the twelfth century, containing astronomical observations as far back as the sixth century. Information has been received also that there are sources in China, and possibly in Japan, Korea and Russia. Chinese writings are considered especially important.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Appointment by the Attorney General—Robert S. King, Esq., to be Deputy Attorney General for Adams county.

Married.—On Thursday last, by the Rev. D. McConaughy, Mr. Samuel
S. McCreary, of Waynesburg,
Mifflin county, Pa., to Miss Sarah
Noel, of this borough.

On the same day by the Rev.
John Herbst, Mr. Jesse Houck, of Heidersburg, to Miss Hannah
Long, daughter of Mr. Philip Long,
of Menallen township.

On the same day by the same,
Mr. Michael Hoffman to Miss Jane
Fickes, both of Hamilton township.
On the 29th ult., by Rev. Mr.
Coleman, Mr. Phineas Marsden to Miss Elizabeth Martin, both of Mountpleasant township.

The feeble and miserable attempt of old Spain to reconquer and bring
once more under their own jurisdiction the Mexican Republic has terminated, as was expected by
every person in this country, in the
defeat and capture of the forces
sent out for that purpose. This case furnishes additional evidence of the intellectual as well as physical weakness of that degraded country. The government and the country both appear to be in the
lowest stage of imbecility or at least
the lowest but one, and that is its sister, Portugal. A more wretched
spectacle than is exhibited by these
two peninsular nations is not easily imagined, and if all public
spirit and patriotism, all intelligence
and virtue were extinct it would seem impossible to prevent a revolution
in both countries.

Shreds and Patches.—The inauguration of the governor elect will take place at Harrisburg on Tuesday,
the 15th of December next.—
The Society of Friends in England have addressed an Epistle to their brethren in the United States, disclaiming all connection as a religious body with the Hicksites, who they say, hold anti-Christian doctrines.—
Mr. Key, of the District of Columbia, states that there are now from 15 to 16 hundred free colored persons and six hundred slaves,
who would go to Liberia, could the funds be provided.—The expense of landing emancipated slaves on the shores of the settlement is $30
a man.—A writer in the Charleston Courier ascribes the depression of business in the Southern States,
and the diminution of their population to the acquisition of Louisiana,
a rural cotton-growing country,
and conceives that the purchase of Texas would just consummate the ruin which the other had commenced.

(Ad.) Ring Hunt.—The Committee appointed at a meeting of the inhabitants of Menallen township give notice that on Thursday, the 12th of November next, A RING
HUNT will take place on the South

Mountain. The huntsmen met at Abraham Studebaker's Tavern
at 8 o'clock in the morning when the arrangements for the day will be made known and the Captains appointed by the Committee. All persons wishing to join in the hunt
are invited to attend.
The 13th of November will be devoted to the chase. In the first day's hunt, neither fire arms nor dogs will be permitted. The Committee.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Cemetery.—The opening ceremonies of "Evergreen Cemetery"
took place on Tuesday morning last,
in presence of a large number of ladies and gentlemen. Appropriate addresses were delivered by Rev. J.
H. C. Dosh and D. McConaughy, Esq.—Revs. Ziegler, Gerhart and Dr. Krauth conducting the religious exercises. The vocal music, under the superintendence of Mr. Potter-field, contributed much to the interest of the occasion.

In the afternoon there was a public sale of choice for lots. The bidding was spirited, 118 lots having been sold near $100 in premiums having been realized therefrom.

We were grateful to observe the deep interest our people manifested in the enterprise, which we regard as already entirely successful.
We were especially grateful to notice
that a number of the lots disposed of were taken by persons residing in the country.

Married.—On the 2d inst., by the Rev. P. Anstaedt, Mr. Emanuel Weikert and Miss Maria Schreiber
—both of Cumberland township.

On the 2d inst., by Rev. E. H.
Hoffheims, Mr. L. Wesley Heagy, and Miss Mary Ann March—both
of Menallen township.

On the 31st ult., by Rev. S. Sentman, Mr. R. Calvin McKinney, of Mountjoy township, and Miss Margaret, daughter of John Maring, of Cumberland township.

On the 17th ult., by Rev. S. W.
Callender, Mr. David Geyer, and Miss Sarah Ann Yeigst, both of Adams county, Pa.

The Winter Session of Pennsylvania College opened on the 2d instant, with a large number of new students.

Female Seminary.—We understand
that the Board of Directors of this Institution have secured the services of Miss Wallace, and that the Winter Session will be opened on Monday next. Miss Wallace is favorably known to our citizens as
an experienced and accomplished
teacher, and it is scarcely necessary that we should say anything
in commendation of her qualifications. The importance of a thorough Female Education is becoming more and more generally appreciated, and we see no reason
why Gettysburg should not sustain
a first-class Female Seminary as well as other places. Home Education, other things being equal, is preferable to that of Boarding Schools. Why not then unite in
the establishment and liberal support of such an Institution in our midst?

Fatal Accident.—A man by the
name of John Nelson Marsh, who
was employed in digging ore on the land of Mr. Enoch Lefevre, in Union
township, was killed on Monday
last, by the falling on an embankment, which he with three others
were undermining at the time.
Fortunately the other three escaped, the crevice having been discovered by one of them, who gave the alarm. The deceased, after retreating a few paces, fell with his
forehead upon a large piece of ore,
and was immediately overwhelmed by the falling earth.

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

WHEN THE MINISTER CALLS

You might know my mother, you
might know my dad,
Though their faces are seldom so
solemn and sad,
But the times when the minister
comes in for tea
You would never know me.

You might know my sister dressed
up in her best,
Who talks with a sigh of the Land
of the Blest
And pretends she is something she
never will be,
But you'd never know me.

You might know our house with
the curtains all straight
And our best knives and forks neat-
ly placed at each plate,
But I'm sure if our manners you happened to see
You never would know me.

When the minister comes everything
seems so queer,
We are not what we are when
there's nobody here,
And I just sit up straight with a
hand on each knee,
So you'd never know me.

I don't look at all like the boy that you've seen,
My hair is too straight and my neck is too clean,
When at last I'm made fit for the parson to see
You would never know me.

WANDERING

"What did you see in your wander-
ings,
Traveler, tell me pray?
At the edge of the world what
charms unfurled,
At dawn and dusk of day?"

"Oh, whether I traveled a mountain
ridge
Or walked in the valleys fair
Or the edge of the sea, I found,"
said he,
"That people were dwelling there."

"Up or down to their tasks they
went,
At evening home they came,
Much as we are, were the folk afar
And their dreams were much the same."

"They laughed and sang when their hearts were glad
And the children, romped and
played,
They struggled for gain and they
suffered pain
And I saw graves newly made."

"Though customs differ and manners change,
Wherever a man may roam
He'll find the tear and the smile
appear
The same as they do at home."

The amateur play at Wild Onion
Friday night of last week was well attended and much enjoyed. Cricket Hicks played the heavy part, as he had to make it thunder twice in the third act.

Yam Sims says he has a tooth

to have it pulled, and it hushes up

hear people wonder to themselves
why they don't get a letter when they haven't even got one due them.

Little Jack Rabbit

By David Cory

"Extra, extra! Daily News!
All about the little bunny.
The Old Duck Lady wouldn't take
David Cory's money!"

Goodness gracious! on hearing
that, everybody in Rabbitville
bought a paper. They wished to learn why the Apple Lady was so generous. Some people thought she must have been bashful, some
didn't think at all; others were just curious. But after reading twice
over the morning paper, from end
to end, they all agreed she was
right, for why should she, living in Bunnyland, accept copper pennies.
Carrot Cents and Pumpkin Pennies
were the coin of Rabbitland. Yes,
indeed, she knew a thing or two,
and maybe three or four, and she
knew, also, that she must be car-

ful, for she had a little duck boy
at home for whom to buy shoes
and stockings, and what would a copper cent buy at the Three-in-
One Cent Store? Nothing, nothing
at all.

But, gracious goodness! I almost forgot that I promised in the last
story to tell you who finally did
pay the apple duck woman. Well,
it was Little Jack Rabbit. Yes, sir,
it was he. Several pumpkin pennies and a few carrot cents were still left in his knapsack, and so he helped Uncle Dave Cory out of a
fix, just like a millionaire.

The Apple Lady wears a shawl
That's nice and warm and yellow.
She sits outside her little stall
And sells sweet cakes and jello.

Inside a little glass top box
Are chewing gum and lollipops.
Besides the apples and the pears
She sells nice sugar-coated wares.

"I think you have a mighty nice
little store," remarked the bunny
boy, looking up at the fat Apple
Duck Woman as she sat on an empty box in front of her little
stall at the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Cranberry Street in Rab-
bitville.

"Glad you approve of it," she answered with a quackery chuckle.
"Chippy Chipmunk owns a little
store in the Shady Forest," went on
the little rabbit. "He sells all kinds
of nuts. Oh, yes, all kinds,— chestnuts, walnuts, acorns and pop-
corns."

"What brought Uncle Dave Cory
to Rabbitville?" asked the Apple

Duck Woman.

"I did," proudly replied the little rabbit. "I've asked him to tell
stories to all the bunny children at Turnip Hall."

"Maybe I'll bring my kiddie,"
said the Apple Duck Lady. "He
enjoys reading about you every
night in the Bunnybridge Bugle.
He says you are some bunny. And
your Uncle Lucky, too—that old gentleman rabbit knows a thing or two, and maybe three."

"I'll tell Uncle Lucky what nice things you've said about him," cried
the little rabbit. "Maybe he'll send you a ticket when his circus comes to town. Would you like to go?"
"I've never been to a rabbit circus, although I've been to a rabbit
dance," said the Apple Duck Woman. "But I'd go just to see your kind old Uncle in his precious wedding stovepipe hat and purple vest,"
and she handed the little bunny a peppermint stick before he hopped
into the next story.

"It won't be long, I must confess,
Before our paper goes to press,
So please to hurry, David Cory,
And 'phone us quick your rabbit
story."

Where have you been this livelong
day
That you your copy must delay?
For many years the early mail
Has always brought your bunny
tale."

over the 'phone cried the anxious editor dog of the Bunnybridge Bugle.

"Oh, pardon me," begged Uncle Dave from his nice cosy room at the Turnip Square Hotel. "You see,
Mr. Lucky Lefthandfoot, the old gentleman bunny, took me to a movie. It was all about an enchanted forest where lollipops
grew on trees so tall that the tiny fairies must hire the Ragged Rabbit Giant to pick the candies from the
treetops."

"One day, after working mighty
hard to fill three immense sacks, he tossed them over his shoulder and
set out for the Fairy Rabbit Queen's Castle, where her Royal Highness
was trying her best to quiet her
little Rabbit Prince, a very selfish youngster. Oh dear me, yes, and yes three times more. He always wanted the best and the most and often all, which made his dear

Mother Rabbit Queen very sad.

"As the great big Rabbit Giant
set down before her the three bags
of lollipops, she asked, with a sigh
and a tear in her eye. "What do
you think makes my little boy rabbit prince so selfish?"

"Let him come with me to-morrow," answered the big giant bunny.
That was all he said, and the Queen
was afraid to ask him more, he looked so glum and solemn. Well,
anyway, early the next morning he
and the little rabbit prince set out
for the Lollipop Grove. On the way the old bunny giant picked a
small blue flower.

"Flower, blue as summer sky,
Make this bunny grow as high
As a pine tree on the hill
Where the wind is never still,"

sang the Ragged Rabbit Giant half
under his breath, as if thinking
aloud, you know. And, would you believe it? No sooner said than done! The little rabbit prince
started to grow up and up and the
big giant down and down, until,
gracious me! the prince was soon
a giant and the giant a dwarf!

"Now, you fill the three great bags with lollipops," commanded

the former giant, who, now of course, was no taller than a fairy.

Strange as it may seem, the prince, although now a giant,
obediently set to work to fill those immense bags, and when they were cramped full, he picked up his little giant friend and started back to the castle. But, Oh dear me!
The poor mother queen was nearly frantic when she saw what had happened. She didn't want a giant prince for a son. No, indeed. She wanted her little fairy bunny boy back, with all his giant selfishness.

Yes, she was just all mothers.
"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" she sobbed.
"I've lost my dear little boy."
"Not if he'll promise to be unselfish from now on," cried the former Ragged Rabbit Giant. "I can change him back into his little self
as easy as one, two, three, high-diddle-dee!" And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

You have a Doctor's Word for this Laxative

IN 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he treated many cases of constipation. He soon saw the harm in common purges
and began to seek something better. Out of his experience was born a famous prescription
now in wide use.

This prescription was written thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young.
Children like it because it doesn't gripe or cause discomfort.
It is a mixture of fresh herbs
and other pure ingredients;
thoroughly effective for the most robust of men. Stimu-lates the normal muscular action of the bowels. So its use will not become a habit.
As people saw how marvel-

ously the most sluggish bowels
are started and bad breath, headaches, biliousness, feverishness,
or no energy, poor appetite, etc.,
are relieved by Dr. Caldwell's prescription, it became necessary
to put it up ready for use.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup
Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative.
All drug stores have the generous bottles. The product never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original formula. So you can take it with confidence or give it to the youngest child.

HEALTH TALK

"Two weeks ago, as everyone knows the greatest break in its history occurred on the New York Stock Exchange. Then it was that literally thousands of men and woman who a few hours before considered themselves rich woke up sadly to the fact that they were bankrupt. Playing the market 'on the margin' they found themselves unable to meet their loans when the test came, and ruin followed. Money and health are exactly alike in this respect," said Dr. Theodore B. Apple, secretary of health, today.

"Bad as the situation was, there is an inconceivably worse one in the United States today. Where there were thousands manipulating the money market on margin there are tens of thousands playing the health market in like fashion. The end results of course will not be as spectacular as was the stock market crash inasmuch as physical bankruptcies do not occur simultaneously. They are continuous performance affairs crippling individuals here killing others there. But the situation is none the less pathetic or devastating for that fact.

A large number of people, wise in their own conceit, including the young, middle aged and even older ones, somehow conclude that they can play health on the margin and win. But it cannot be done.

The person who habitually robs himself of adequate sleep a proper amount of fresh air, sufficient exercise and becomes a marginal player through late hours and exhausting and enervating habits has a day of inevitable reckoning if he persists in his folly. And it is likely to hit him out of a clear sky.

True hospital fees, undertakers' accounts and even doctors' bills are enlarged by such practices, but that is little consolation to the fellow who has played the health game 'on margin' and has lost.

"Just remember that health has its fixed and sensible rules. It may be purchased by proper living and judicious care. And it can be suddenly lost by opposite treatment.

Are you playing the health market on margin? What do you expect to get out of it? Better play safe by investing in proper living which is the only type of health finance that pays. Life is sweet. Don't kill it by 'margin playing'."

Never before a gas like this — at the price of regular gasoline

WHEN our last tests were made--when ORANGE AMERICAN GAS was finally ready to be marketed--we knew that we had a stirring story to tell!

For here was a gas--definitely checked by a scientific testing machine--which showed the highest anti-knock rating of any gas ever sold at the price of regular gasoline.

Here was a gas which was quick on the trigger in all weathers. Here was a gas which made new cars and older cars soar up hills which formerly were stumbling blocks. Here was a gas chock-full of vim, vigor and velocity--a gas packed with power, flowing over with flexibility--the finest gas ever offered at the price of regular gasoline.

Although there's every reason for charging a higher price for ORANGE AMERICAN GAS, you'll find it sold at the price of regular gasoline at convenient pumps. But of all gasolines sold at that figure, this new ORANGE AMERICAN GAS has the highest anti-knock rating. And we prove it!

of old Spain to reconquer and bring
once more under their own jurisdic-

terminated, as was expected by
every person in this country, in the
defeat and capture of the forces
sent out for that purpose. This
case furnishes additional evidence
of the intellectual as well as phys-

country. The government and the country both appear to be in the
lowest stage of imbecility or at least
the lowest of one, and that is its sister, Portugal. A more wretched
spectacle than is exhibited by these
two peninsular nations is not
easily imagined, and if all public
spirit and patriotism, all intelligence
and virtue were extinct it would seem impossible to prevent a revolu-

Female Seminary.—We understand
that the Board of Directors of this Institution have secured the services of Miss Wallace, and that the Winter Session will be opened on Monday next. Miss Wallace is a
favorably known to our citizens as
an experienced and accomplished
teacher, and it is scarcely necessary that we should say anything
in commendation of her qualifications. The importance of a thorough Female Education is becoming more and more generally appreciated, and we see no reason
why Gettysburg should not sustain
a first-class Female Seminary as well as other places. Home Education, other things being equal,
is preferable to that of Boarding Schools. Why not then unite in
the establishment and liberal support of such an Institution in our midst?

Fatal Accident.—A man by the
name of John Nelson Marsh, who
was employed in digging ore on the land of Mr. Enoch Lefevre, in Union
township, was killed on Monday
last, by the falling on an embank-
ment, which he with three others
were undermining at the time.
Fortunately the other three escap-

alarm. The deceased, after retreating a few paces, fell with his
forehead upon a large piece of ore,

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Guest

WHEN THE MINISTER CALLS
You might know my mother, you
might know my dad.
Though their faces are seldom so
solemn and sad.
But the times when the minister
comes in for tea
You would never know me.

You might know my sister dressed
up in her best,
Who talks with a sigh of the Land
of the Blest
And pretends she is something she
never will be.
But you'd never know me.

You might know our house with
the curtains all straight
And our best knives and forks neat-
ly placed at each plate,
But I'm sure if my manners you
happened to see
You never would know me.

When the minister comes everything
seems so queer,
We are not what we are when
there's nobody here,
And I just sit up straight with a
hand on each knee,
So you'd never know me.

WANDERING
"What did you see in your wander-
ings,
Traveler, tell me pray?
At the edge of the world what
charms unfurled
At dawn and dusk of day?"

"Oh whether I traveled a mountain
ridge
Or wandered in the valleys fair
Or the edge of the sea, I found,"
said he,
"That people were dwelling there."

"Up or down to their tasks they
went,
At evening home they came,
Much as we are, were the folk afar
And their dreams were much the
same."

"They laughed and sang when their
hearts were glad
And the children romped and
played,
They struggled for gain and they
suffered pain
And I saw graves newly made."

"Though customs differ and man-
ners change,
Wherever a man may roam
He'll find the tear and the smile
appear
The same as they do at home."

Little Jack Rabbit
By David Cory

"Extra, extra! Daily News!
All about the little bunny
The Old Duck Lady wouldn't take
David Cory's money!"

Goodness gracious! on hearing
that, everybody in Rabbitville
bought a paper. They wished to learn why the Apple Lady was so generous. Some people thought she
must have been bashful, some
didn't think at all; others were just
curious. But after reading twice
over the morning paper, from end
to end, they all agreed she was
right, for why should she, living in Bunnyland, accept copper pennies,
Carrot Cents and Pumpkin Pennies,
were the coin of Rabbitland. Yes,
indeed, she knew a thing or two,
and maybe three or four, and she
knew, also, that she must be car-

ful, for she had a little duck boy
at home for whom to buy shoes
and stockings, and what would a
copper cent buy at the Three-in-
One Cent Store? Nothing, nothing
at all.

But, gracious goodness! I almost forgot that I promised in the last
story to tell you who finally did
pay the apple duck woman. Well,
it was Little Jack Rabbit. Yes, sir,
it was he. Several pumpkin pennies and a few carrot cents were sifted left in his knapsack, and so he helped Uncle Dave Cory out of a
fix, just like a millionaire.

The Apple Lady wears a shawl
That's nice and warm and yellow
She sits outside her little stall
And sells sweet cakes and jello.

Inside a little glass top box
Are chewing gum and lollipops.
Besides the apples and the pears
She sells nice sugar-coated wares.

"I think you have a mighty nice
little store," remarked the bunny
boy, looking up at the fat Apple
Duck Woman as she sat on an
empty box in front of her little
stall at the corner of Lettuce Avenue and Cranberry Street in Rab-
bitville.

"Glad you approve of it," she
answered with a quackery chuckle.
"Chippy Chipmunk owns a little
store in the Shady Forest," went on
the little rabbit. "He sells all kinds
of nuts. Oh, yes, all kinds—
chestnuts, walnuts, acorns and pop-
corns."

"What brought Uncle Dave Cory
to Rabbitville?" asked the Apple Lady.

"I did," proudly replied the little rabbit. "I've asked him to tell
stories to all the bunny children at Turnip Hall."
"Maybe I'll bring my kiddie,"
said the Apple Duck Lady. "He
enjoys reading about you every
night in the Bunnybridge Bugle.
He says you are some bunny. And
your Uncle Lucky, too—that old

the little rabbit. "Maybe he'll send

kind old Uncle in his precious wed-

and she handed the little bunny a
peppermint stick before he hopped
into the next story.

"It won't be long, I must confess,
Before our paper goes to press.
So please to hurry, David Cory,
And phone us quick your rabbit
story."

That your copy must delay?
For many years the early mail
Has always brought your bunny
tale."

Mr. Lucky Lefthindfoot, the old gentleman bunny, took me to a movie. It was all about an en-
chanted forest where lollipops
grow on trees so tall that the tiny
fairies must hire the Ragged Rabbit Giant to pick the candies from the
treetops."

"One day, after working mighty
hard to fill three immense sacks, he
tossed them over his shoulder and

Castle, where her Royal Highness
was trying her best to quiet her
little Rabbit Prince, a very selfish

Mother Rabbit Queen very sad.
"As the great big Rabbit Giant
set down before her the three bags
of lollipops, she asked, with a sigh
and a tear in her eye. "What do
you think makes my little boy rab-
bit prince so selfish?"
"Let him come with me tomorrow," answered the big giant bunny. "That was all he said, and the Queen
was afraid to ask him more, he
looked so glum and solemn. Well,
anyway, early the next morning he
and the little rabbit prince set out
for the Lollipop Grove. On the way the old bunny giant picked a
small blue flower.
"Flower, blue as summer sky,
Make this bunny grow as high
As a pine tree on the hill
Where the wind is never still,"
sang the Ragged Rabbit Giant half
under his breath, as if thinking
aloud, you know. And, would you believe it? No sooner said than
done! The little rabbit prince
started to grow up and up and the
big giant down and down, until,
gracious me! the prince was soon
a giant and the giant a dwarf!

HEADS OF GREAT WOMEN'S GROUPS PRAISE RED CROSS

Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, president general, Daughters of the American Revolution (left) and Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

LEADERS of two great groups of women—both interested in the public welfare of the citizens and the nation—join in asking members of their organizations and all women to enroll in the annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross. They are Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Sippel declares: "The Red Cross is an emblem which is recognized and respected by the civilized world. The annual membership Roll Call is about to be issued by this worthy national organization, which extends its humanitarian service the world over. Its field of action is not the battle field alone; its ideal is not merely to care for or relieve distress, it aims to prevent disease and to preserve health."

"The value of the work of the Red Cross is known to club women everywhere."

Special Plea to Women

"This year a special plea is being made to the women of the country to enroll in this worthy cause. Permit me as the President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to urge every club woman and every woman citizen of these United States to become a member."

"Blessed are those who work for the Red Cross."

In her call to women to enroll Mrs. Hobart states: "The American Red Cross has the admiration of all for its magnificent disaster relief work. When catastrophes are visited upon our citizens, we rest content that the Red Cross will soon be upon the scene and that suffering will be minimized through its prompt efforts in succoring the victims."

"I wish to emphasize that the activities of the Red Cross in public health work, in life saving and first aid teaching, in reaching school children through the Junior Red Cross and its disaster relief work, all are supported from the annual Roll Call for members. Only during this one period in the year, from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, does the Red Cross ask for public support for its own activities. Appeals for funds for relief in great disasters—such as in the Mississippi Valley floods or the West Indies hurricane of last year—are only made after sanction of the President of the United States, who is also president of the Red Cross."

Patriotic Call

"Because of this, I believe that every member of the Daughters of the American Revolution should answer this annual Red Cross Roll Call and join the membership. We all, I am sure, wish to be enrolled in helping 'The Greatest Mother' in her humanitarian work."

"Shadows of Strife" was presented at the Birmingham Repertory theatre and made such an impression that Sir Barry Jackson, the London producer, is planning to bring it here for a metropolitan premiere.

The play deals with the reactions in a miner's household of the great general strike of 1926. Davison wrote it when a shut-down of coal mines threw him out of work.

He also has written poems, novels and short stories, but literary profits have not yet enabled him to give up his railroad job. A wife and three children are dependent on him.

After seeing his play enthusiastically welcomed at its Birmingham debut, Davison wanted to see another performance of it but had to hurry back to Mexborough and to company were up.

The body of Dick Dowling, Confederate hero of the civil war, lies in an unmarked grave adjoining a little Mexican church in Houston.

LEADERS of two great groups of women—both interested in the public welfare of the citizens and the nation—join in asking members of their organizations and all women to enroll in the annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross. They are Mrs. Lowell F. Hobart, president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Sippel declares: "The Red Cross is an emblem which is recognized and respected by the civilized world. The annual membership Roll Call is about to be issued by this worthy national organization, which extends its humanitarian service the world over. Its field of action is not the battle field alone; its ideal is not merely to care for or relieve distress, it aims to prevent disease and to preserve health. The value of the work of the Red Cross is known to club women everywhere."

Special Plea to Women

"This year a special plea is being made to the women of the country to enroll in this worthy cause. Permit me as the President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to urge every club woman and every woman citizen of these United States to become a member. Blessed are those who work for the Red Cross."

WOMAN ENDS WORLD TREK

Visits Every Country That Was Ever Under Domination Of Spain Or Portugal.

By Sue McNamara

Washington (AP). — A slight woman whose eyes have gazed fearlessly at danger in the odd corners of the world, has completed a 27-year journey that has taken her twice around the globe and into every country that was under the domination of Spain or Portugal.

She is Mrs. Harriet Chalmers Adams, considered one of the foremost women explorers in America, and president of the Society of Women Geographers. It has been her ambition to follow the trails of the leading Spanish conquerors of the sixteenth century and she has gone into all the lands which they discovered or explored.

She has returned to her Washington home, after six months spent in out of the way places in Spain, with interesting new light on the conquests of Columbus, Pizarro, Cortez, Magellan, Vasco da Gama, Juan Sebastian Elcano and Alvar Nunez Cabeza de Vaca.

Across the Pacific, into every country of Europe, up South American rivers, over the Andes and to the Philippines Mrs. Adams has gone seeking the birthplaces and graves of the conquistadors. Neither danger nor illness daunted her. She was bitten by vampire bats while camping along the Amazon; she was poisoned in British Guiana by eating a bird that had been killed with poison arrows. Three years ago while on the island of Ibeza, off the coast of Spain, she fell off a cliff and broke a couple of vertebrae in her back.

But after long months in a plaster cast and steel braces she set valiantly off again last spring to take up once more the adventurous trail. She not only completed her mission, but returned much improved in health.

During these years of exploration Mrs. Adams has traveled by trains, steamers, automobiles, airplanes, in canoes, sailboats, on horseback, on camels and elephants and in motor trucks.

Mrs. Adams inherited her interest in things Spanish. Her grandfather went to California in 1842 when it was largely settled by Spaniards and Indians. Her mother was the first white girl born in Eldorado county. When she was 14 she traveled on horseback with her father from Mexico to Oregon.

Her marriage to Franklin Adams, counsel of the Pan American Union 27 years ago, enabled her to start in earnest on the shimmering trail of the hardy old conquistadors. Mr. Adams has accompanied her on many of her trips.

LONE ROBBER NO BANDIT

UNDER MEXICAN CODE
Mexico City (AP). — A holdup man who operates alone is not a bandit, under the new penal code, which says:

"Bandits are those who in the number of two or more attack any one with the object of injuring him or his patrimony."

A 20-year prison term is provided for bandits, whereas a lone holdup man can escape with a much lighter sentence.

MR. GEO. W. MORNINGSTAR

FARMER HAD SUCH DIZZY SPELLS HE COULDN'T WORK

Had been suering with them since youth. Tells how Natex brought complete relief. Also ended pains in side and constipation.

When your nerves are on edge and your work seems a burden, when you feel tired, wornout and weary all the time, when you suffer with constipation, indigestion, headaches, dizziness and rheumatic pains, give the new herbal prescription, Natex, the chance to help you as it has helped so many others in this section. Dozens of people come into Murphy's Cut Rate Store each day and tell the Natex Representative who is making his headquarters there of the wonderful benefits this new college professor's medicine has brought them.

One of the many Hanover people to testify is Mr. Geo. W. Morningstar, who lives on Route 4. He says: "Ever since youth I had been troubled with severe attacks of dizziness. Everything would go black before my eyes and I got so giddy that I couldn't work. I was also troubled with constipation and had pains in my sides and joints that I thought was caused by my kidneys. As a result of these ailments I naturally felt tired and rundown all the time."

"I read so much about Natex that I decided to give it a trial and this wonderful prescription helped me so much that I am now like a different man. I am never troubled with the dizziness anymore and the pains in my side and joints, the nervousness and the constipation have also disappeared. I sleep soundly at night, can enjoy every meal and feel so grateful to Natex for what it has done for me that I am getting my wife to start on it too."

The Natex Representative at Murphy's Cut Rate Store is daily meeting local people and explaining the merits of this new prescription. See him today. Samples are free.
